

BRIAN MASSUMI

Visiting Scholar, April 13-27, 2006

Media Studies Program, The New School. Co-sponsored by Parsons Department of Architecture

BRIAN MASSUMI

During a two-week residency at The New School, Professor Brian Massumi of the Department of Communication, Université de Montréal, will explore how new media environments define the relational matrices in which we now live and work. How might we use media to shape spaces and events of social interaction and relationality? How do media shapings of bodies' movements, affects, and sensations generate possibilities and constraints for what we think and do in public spaces and events?

Welcome Reception for Professors Massumi and Manning will take place April 18, from 2:30-4:00 p.m., Room 1204, 70 Fifth Ave.

All students and faculty are welcome.

Public lecture: Friday, April 21, 5:30-7:00 p.m., Room 404, 66. W. 12th St.

Seating limited. RSVP.

Intensive two-day seminar co-facilitated with Erin Manning

"After the Long Past: Regenerating Presents"

April 25-26, 2006 / 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. each day / Room 1204, 70 Fifth. Ave.

This hybrid theoretical seminar/studio workshop will explore the pragmatic potentials for change offered by artistic and conceptual practices that address perception and feeling. All graduate students currently enrolled in The New School are eligible to apply to the seminar. To apply, send a 250-word statement of interest that explains the pertinence of the seminar to your graduate work. The statement should be emailed no later than Friday, March 10, 2006 to Elizabeth Ellsworth, Core Faculty, Media Studies Program: ellswore@newschool.edu.
